

Cactus Barrel Saddles

Barrel racing requires center balance that allows you to keep your seat going into a turn and the ability to pop up and ride hard out of a turn. Part of creating that balance is finding the right seat size for a rider and the construction of the saddle. With the help of top endorsees like World Champion, Olympic Gold Medalist, and National Little Britches Alum Marlene McRae, Cactus Saddlery has designed barrel saddles to fit and give riders a competitive edge. Cactus Barrel saddles feature seat sizes from 12" to 15.5", with fenders and stirrups set forward to help the rider keep their position. Cactus barrel saddles come with your choice of quarter or full quarter horse bars, that flare out to create a snug fit with the horse without unwanted pressure, allowing the horse to move and perform without restriction. ## Cactus Team Roping Saddles

Competing to win starts with the proper fit of your saddle, no one knows that better than Scott Thomas General Manager of Cactus Saddlery and former National Little Britches World Champion. Center balance is the key to team roping. A saddle that is fit properly for the rider has a pocket that creates center balance, allowing the rider full control and proper positioning to swing with ease. Selecting the proper saddle for each rider starts with selecting the proper seat size. Cactus Saddlery strives to fit each competitor in a saddle that will help them compete effectively. Cactus Saddlery offers team roping saddles in kid, junior, and adults with seat sizes from 12" – 17". Cactus saddles all offer excellent fit for horses as well and were designed with flared bars that create a secure fit against the horse that won't pinch or squeeze while allowing the horse to move freely. All of these saddles are fully customizable with your choice of tooling, seat color, conchos, and much more.
